God's Design For Happy Relationships

Vol 42, Issue 39

<sup>1</sup> "Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. <sup>2</sup> "Honor your father and mother" (this is the first commandment with a promise), <sup>3</sup> "that it may go well with you and that you may live long in the land."—Ephesians 6:1–3

Parents: aim to raise _____ children

Children:

1. Spirit-filled children increasingly obey their parents v. 1

2. Spirit-filled children _____ their parents v. 2

3. Generally, Spirit-filled children _____ v. 3

Discussion and reflection for understanding and growth

- Does honoring parents mean not confronting their sin? How can we discern what to accept and what to confront?
- Why is it wrong to assume that teenagers will rebel?
- How can parents minimize teen rebellion?
- I will pray and elaborate on this prayer: "I am thankful for my parent(s)/kid(s), they help me mature in Christ."
- I will work on improving my relationship with my child(ren)/parent(s).
